Tax coalition forces trustees to review budget

by Andy Holloway

Haliburton's taxpayer's coalition has succeeded in forcing the board of education to take another look at its budget.

Trustees at the management committee meeting last Tuesday were all set to recommend the acceptance of the proposed budget, but reconsidered when faced with about 30 angry taxpayers led by coalition president Bill Payne and spokesman Archie Dobbins.

Instead, the committee will take another look at its budget on Tuesday and try to cut down what would have been a 5.3 per cent increase or about $40 extra on an average Dysart property tax bill.

However, those expecting a large decrease in the board's budget will probably be disappointed. Committee members all said they still do not want cuts to affect programs.

Business administrator Jim Bradley said the two areas where cuts could generate significant savings are teachers or busing.

The board could see some savings by making children walk up to one mile to more common pick-up points. Muskoka's board recently adopted such a policy, but is enforcing it only where the speed limit is 60 kilometers per hour or less. In Haliburton, there are few areas where the speed limit is that low. Therefore, children would have to walk along the side of busy roads and highways.

Aside from busing, the only area left to cut is the teaching staff -- which, if last Tuesday's crowd is any indication, would make taxpayers very happy.

Archie Dobbins who presented the coalition's speech said the board can not pass the budget as it stands because taxpayers have nothing left to give.

"If you pass this budget you are insulting my intelligence. And I'll tell you now that you won't get away with it," said Dobbins.

Dobbins said teachers should be forced to accept an immediate 10 per cent pay cut. Other businesses in Ontario are realigning their salary structures and it's time education boards did the same, said Dobbins.

"To coin a phrase, the cut would be about three or four cases of beer. The only difference is we're asking the people who can afford it," said Dobbins. If the teachers went on strike and parents complained then the board could blame the coalition, said Dobbins.

However, the board did ask teachers if they would be willing to renegotiate the final year of their two-year contract to fit more in with the restraint of the times, but they refused and the board let it go.

Hot air high jinks

Students at Archie Stouffer Elementary School's annex take shelter beneath the enormous billowing kite during their phys-ed class last week. The warm sun and absence of wind were ideal for playing games in the school lot.

Tomorrow is decision day

The health care planning committee will be meeting tomorrow to determine the location of the 30 proposed long term care beds for the county.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 9:30 a.m. at Our Lady of Fatima Church hall in Minden.

Committee members are expected to vote on which location is best suited for a 30-bed expansion -- adjacent to Haliburton Hospital or as an addition to Highland Crest Home for the aged in Minden.

Times takes four awards in provincial competition

Area papers did very well in this year's annual Ontario Community Newspaper Awards competition.

The Times had finishers in the top three of several categories. Two reporters from The Times earned honours. Andy Holloway's two part series 'Down in the dumps' was voted the second best environmental story of the year while Susan Grober earned a third-place finish for her sports and recreation story, 'A fish tale'.

The Times' editorial cartoonist Gil Parcell finished second for his piece

'Admiral Restraint'.

The Times also fared well in its circulation class (level 3) finishing fourth overall. In addition, the editorial pages were considered the best of all 10 entrants while its news and feature stories were considered second best.

The Haliburton County Echo finished first in its class (level 4) and took firsts in the Citizenship and Multiculturalism and Finance categories. The paper's 'Fall Tour' supplement finished second in the special section category.

Coalition raises budget fuss

But others at the meeting agreed with Dobbins' criticism of teachers' salaries and said they must be cut even if it means a strike.

"If you put your foot down and said 'No' you would find a lot of teachers who would cross the lines. I think it's time the board has to remember that we run the system not the teachers," said Linda Weir.

John Beachli said teachers should take a pay cut because the average salary in this county is very low. People live here because they enjoy the way of life and, therefore, sacrifice other things like the possibility of high income. "Teachers should have to pay for their standard of living here just as everybody else does."

Trustees said that maybe teachers' salaries are out of whack when compared with the rest of the county, but not when compared to Ontario. Business administrator Bradley said area teachers' salaries are about average in the province and that to cut one per cent off this year's budget they would have to eliminate eight teachers. Education director Brad Saunders said pupil-teacher ratios are up and the board has not increased staff during the past two years despite increased enrolment.

Dysart trustee Tim Casey said he became a trustee because he didn't like the spiraling costs of education. However, he says his participation as a trustee has helped him better understand the process. Even if local teachers wanted to take a pay cut they would not be allowed to because of pressure from their federations.

In his speech to the committee, Dobbins listed a number of items the board should concern itself with to cut its budget. He said the board should consider year-round schooling, no retirement gratuities, collecting private donations, having industry representatives teach, replace teachers with teacher assistants, stop junior kindergarten, increase pupil-teacher ratios and return to teaching just the basic elements of education.

As well the board should stop "warm and fuzzy" programs like its planned computer program, he said. Otherwise, taxpayers could withhold taxes, refuse to send their children to school or even resort to violence -- a suggestion which was greeted with a round of cheers from some of those present.

However, board staff and trustees defended the budget and said they do recognize the financial realities facing Haliburton County.

"We're not a bunch of idiots as suggested by the tone of this meeting. There's not one of us who wouldn't want a zero per cent increase if it were possible," said Casey.

Comparing the school board to a factory is not appropriate said Casey because they are not turning out "left-handed widgets", but people who will hopefully be able to function in society.

The four committee members who were present all said they would take a look at cuts, but none gave any indication that the budget would be reduced. The board will meet in its office at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday to reexamine the budget.

Budget was set at 5.3 per cent

by Andy Holloway

Despite taking a new look at the board of education's budget trustees are not optimistic they can get the planned 5.3 per cent increase lower.

The board can only change the expenditure side of its budget, it has no control over the $278,345 or seven per cent decrease in revenues from the province.

At the board meeting in March trustees approved the board's expenses of about $16.5 million pending the result of the province's grants.

However, pressure from the county's taxpayer's coalition forced the board to take another look at ways of reducing its budget hike. The increase represents about an extra $40 on the average home owner's property upcoming tax bill which the coalition says taxpayers can not afford.

Most residential property owners would actually face an increase around 5.4 per cent. Board figures show the planned increase would be between a low of 0.03 per cent for Bicroft to a high of 5.42 per cent for Snowdon. Taxpayers in Minden would pay slightly less than Snowdon, coming in at 5.414 per cent.

Trustees at the management committee meeting last Tuesday said they would take another look at the budget, but they would not cut services.

Minden trustee Wally

Bunn said he was pleased that the end result and asked what else the board could cut. Listing staff, busing, sports and shops as possibilities, Bunn said he would not want to cut any of those programs.

Whatever the board does decide to cut the other alternatives will be given out by administration to show people why more cuts were not made.

In earlier budget discussions business administrator Jim Bradley handed out a potential zero per cent expenses budget hike. Some of the things that would have to be cut included the computer initiative, 12 teachers, half the number of educational assistants and making all students walk up to a mile.

Victoria budget upsets Somerville reeve

by Jerry Grozelle

John Huke, Reeve of Somerville Township, is not happy with the County of Victoria's budget for 1993.

Huke was unavailable for comment when the budget story appeared in The Times, but he has since made his feelings known.

Among Huke's concerns about the $32-million budget, an increase of eight per cent over 1992, is the length of time that he and the rest of the County Councillors had to peruse the document. He says that he had six days to read the document and during that time he had several meetings to attend in his capacity as Reeve of Somerville Township. Since other reeves and deputy-reeves have similar commitments as he does, he wonders whether they had time to really absorb the contents of the budget.

"I always pick my papers up (County documents, agendas, etc.)," he said. "If I waited for the mail system, they could come after the meeting is over."

Huke was also concerned about the budget document itself.

"With over 20 errors and omissions, how can you vote or have any confidence in the rest of it," he said.

CLARIFICATION

Reeve Huke pointed out that there may have been some misunderstanding about the time frame of the repairs to the bridge in Kinmount.

Although the Ministry of Transportation has provided for the repairs in its 1993 budget, the actual work won't be done until 1994.

Huke said that since the repairs had been budgeted for 1993 it was assumed that work would be done this year.

He is relieved that the work won't take place until 1994 because Kinmount businesses, like other small community businesses, are in the process of shaking off the effects of the recession. At this time, they don't need the reduced traffic that is bound to occur because of the bridge on the main thoroughfare being reduced to one lane.

Station Street will be closed off at Highway 121 (just north of the bridge) while the repairs are in progress and a turn-around will be provided for big trucks, which won't be able to negotiate the turn onto the bridge from Highway 503 east. The trucks will have to turn south on 121, make turn and approach the bridge from the south.

POSITIVE NOTES

On a positive note, Huke said that he is happy that the township was able to negotiate a mutually agreeable deal with the Victoria County Board of Education for the purchase of the Burnt River school.

Although it was a long, drawn-out process, Huke said: "I'd like to thank the Board of Education for its co-operation and assistance."

The Somerville Reeve is also looking forward to the April meeting of the Northern Network. He expects a good turnout of officials from surrounding townships. The object of the meeting is to promote co-operation among the group of municipalities on matters of mutual interest, especially in areas of cost savings, the encouragement of businesses relocating to the area and the creation of jobs.

Recycling dollars

by Andy Holloway

Three Haliburton municipalities will split over $90,000 in government grants for various recycling programs.

The big winner was Dysart et al which received $72,000 from the province's Municipal Recycling Support Program to purchase 6,400 household Blue Box bins and to operate its Blue Box program. Typical costs for the program include advertisements, promotional materials and other operating expenses. The municipality has purchased and sold blue boxes to its residents before.

Sherborne et al also received money for its Blue Box program. Nearly $13,000 was given to the municipality which has been using the boxes for about two years. Reeve Ross Rabjohn had not heard about the grant last Friday, but said he does not see any reason to purchase any more boxes because the municipality doesn't offer home garbage pick-up.

Rabjohn said the bins were largely for promotional value when they first started the program. Now that the program is in place he said there isn't any reason to buy any more.

"We did get the bins and distributed them to the taxpayers in order to get them to collect garbage at their cottage or their homes and then bring them into the landfill sites."

However, the money might be used to help the municipality with the large recycling bins at the dump sights.

Both dump sites in the municipality are filling up rapidly said Rabjohn and work has been on both to allow them to stay open.

At the Dorset dump workers will soon be filtering through the garbage to get rid of the fill which has been used to cover the garbage over the past few years. The result of that operation will allow the dump to stay open for at least another year says Rabjohn, but the site will eventually become a transfer station where garbage will be shipped over to the Oxtongue site.

Last week, the township along with the ministries of natural resources and the environment were working at the Oxtongue site to get it ready for future transferring.

The third township to receive a grant was Lutterworth which received $6,350 for a home composting program. The township plans to use the grant to buy 200 home composters and to fund the promotion of a program over the next two years.

Other townships have got into composting in a big way. Most recently, Minden had 650 composting units sell out in a few hours. Stanhope will also be distributing composters this spring.

Break-ins keep police busy during weekend

The Easter weekend proved to be a busy one for Minden OPP as they investigated 10 break-ins and handed out seven liquor charges although none were for impaired driving.

Also reported was the theft of two snowmobiles and an ATV from a campsite in Haliburton Wildlife Reserve.

A RIDE Program set up on Saturday night checked 278 vehicles. As a result seven liquor related charges were laid, but fortunately no one was driving while impaired.

On Caribou Lodge Road, four cottages were broken into and numerous household items were stolen. Among the other places broken into were located at:

Minden Community Centre: large quantity of coins

Lutterworth Township: microwave oven and short-wave radio

Lutterworth Township: two helmets and a Yamaha dirt bike

Fort Irwin: 10 new windows from a storage shed

Caribou Lodge Road: Four cottages were broken into and a number of household items were stolen

Stanhope Township: TV, VCR, radio, liquor and two paintings

Technibus:

CNIB goes on the road with latest in technology

by Russ Duhaime

Minden area residents had the opportunity Friday to try out some of the new technology which is gradually opening new doors to blind and visually impaired persons.

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind Technibus wheeled into the parking lot of the Minden Legion Friday morning as part of its cross-Canada tour which celebrates the 75th anniversary of the CNIB.

Dozens of area residents took the opportunity to learn about some of the new technology that can enhance a blind, visually impaired or deaf-blind person's independence at home, school or work.

The bus is loaded with everything from talking computers to specially adapted household items. All are designed to provide greater independence to their users.

Along one wall of the Technibus is a row of computer equipment which fulfills a wide variety of applications. Included in this display are the talking computers; magnifiers that will blow up images and text to enormous sizes, and a scanner that reads text aloud. Among the household items are self-threading needles, specially-adapted kitchen knives, cutting boards and talking watches.

Technibus Coordinator Lydia Bardak says much of the computer equipment on display is still too costly for most people. The talking scanner, for example, costs about $6,000. Considering that many of the potential users are unemployed, these costs are still out of reach for most.

However, prices are steadily dropping, she says. The scanner, for example, would have sold for about $60,000 a few years ago.

The Technibus was launched on March 30 as part of the CNIB's 75th anniversary celebrations and is travelling to 175 communities across Canada. Its goal is to raise public awareness that, since its beginning in 1918, the CNIB has been on the leading edge of rehabilitation services for blind, visually impaired and deaf-blind people.

The CNIB's theme in this year, "pathways to independence," is an indication of the commitment to helping people lead independent lives.

Pathways to Independence:

The CNIB Technibus rolled into Minden Friday, offering local residents an opportunity to try out some of the latest gadgets designed to help blind and visually impaired people gain more independence.

Left, computers offer tremendous benefits to visually impaired individuals.

R-2000 seminar a success

by Andy Holloway

The following brief items were discussed at Stanhope council last Wednesday.

BHCITC thanks

The R-2000 homes seminar held in the basement of Stanhope's library was a big success, said the director of the Bancroft-Haliburton Community Industrial Training Committee.

Barry Butler said 25 local contractors were at the seminar held during the first week of April. Overall, 36 businesses were represented at some point during the three day event.

"I couldn't have asked for better support from Gerald and his staff," said Butler of Stanhope's clerk Gerald Bain. "It was very gratifying to get the kind of support that we got."

The BHCITC is a non-profit training organization which is funded by the province.

Butler said the group had looked for a place to hold the R-2000 seminar in Haliburton and Minden, but could not find a place so they approached Stanhope where they were accepted.

No sale

Stanhope will not sell any of its gravel at Irwin Pit to the province for construction on highways. After consulting with the township's roads superintendent councillors decided it would be better to keep the dwindling pile of fine gravel for the township's use.

"We might end up paying for gravel later at tomorrow's prices," said Reeve Fred Gardner. "Let's keep it for Stanhope."

The gravel will be used for sanding roads and possibly for covering the dumps in the future. The gravel in the Irwin Pit is mostly fine and there is little of the coarser material needed for building roads.

Name game

The renaming of Minden's Highland Road has stalled. Clerk Gerald Bain said he has yet to hear back from Minden council after Minden's first renaming offer of Highland Road West was turned down because it was still too similar to Highland Road in Stanhope. The Ministry of Transportation is holding back any name change until it gets the go ahead from Stanhope. Stanhope requested that Minden's Highland Road be changed because it is in the same fire coverage zone as their similarly named road.

As well, there could be confusion for other emergency crews and for people coming into the area.

One benefit that has possibly arrived as a result of the three-month long name game is that Haliburton's roads superintendents are compiling a list of road names in all of the townships in order to avoid similar confusion in the future.

Come and go

A resolution from Lindsay council asking to preserve unused railway lines met with disfavour from Stanhope councillors. Saying the time of the train is long over councillor Murray Daniels said he could not support the resolution asking the province to keep the lines open. Councillor Elea-nor Harrison said she could not support any resolution that would cost the taxpayers money for no good reason.

OPP warns drivers to buckle up

The OPP and provincial Municipal Police Services is warning drivers to wear their seatbelts as they start a new public awareness campaign.

The campaign will run from April 18 to April 30 and is designed to help prevent needless deaths.

Last year 273 people who were not wearing seatbelts were killed in accidents, an increase of 25 over the previous year.

Police say they are committed to achieving a 95 per cent compliance rate by the end of 1995. To do that they need to increase compliance by 11 per cent in the next 33 months.

The fine for not wearing a seatbelt is $90. Everyone in the car should be wearing a seat belt at all times, especially children say police. Toddlers and infants should be properly placed in safety-approved children's seats.

"Wearing a seat belt is a simple thing to do. It doesn't require any great deal of manual dexterity. One two-second-snap of the seatbelt buckle can save a life. Better odds than a lifetime of physical injury resulting from an accident, or an early grave," a release from Peterborough OPP states.

Although more people over the past ten years are wearing seatbelts the number of deaths and injuries is still high. Just five years ago nearly 350 people who were not wearing seatbelts died in car accidents.

Don't be a statistic, buckle up every time you get into a car.

OVER 125 BRANCHES ACROSS CANADA

Granny flats could be set up soon in Victoria

by Jerry Grozelle

(The following brief items were discussed at Laxton, Digby and Longford council on April 6.)

MINOR VARIANCE

Ingram Wessell attended the April meeting of Laxton, Digby and Longford council requesting township approval to excavate gravel right up to his property line along an unopened road allowance along the western boundary of his Norland pit.

The township's by-laws relating to aggregate resources operations call for a 100-foot setback. But since this is an unopened road allowance, council agreed to reduce the setback to 25 feet. The change in setback would be dealt with by a minor variance.

Wessell told council that he had contacted the Ministry of Natural Resources and was told that the Ministry had no problems with the proposal to excavate to the property line as long as he was able to obtain written approval from the township.

"We wouldn't be affecting the public property in any way whatsoever," Wessell told council.

Reeve Doug Horton explained that a 75 per cent reduction in the setback was quite a bit for a minor variance.

"Some effort has been put in on your behalf," Horton said. "We wanted you to get the most you can, the easiest way possible. It's a 75 per cent improvement."

Wessell has two more hurdles before he gets the green light. A public meeting has to be held to determine if there are any objections from adjacent property owners and Victoria County officials must rubber-stamp the changes as well.

Rod Harrison, who owns a gravel pit on the opposite side of the unopened road allowance, was offered the same setback option.

UNTESTED WATERS

Recent government regulations regarding "granny flats" may be tested for the first time in Victoria County by a Norland family.

Gordon Bartley approached council on behalf of his parents Gordon Sr. and Marilyn to determine what co-operation could be expected from the township and what guidelines were in place with regard to an addition to provide housing for elder family members.

Bartley was told that he may be the first person in Victoria County to make such an enquiry. Although council was unable to provide any concrete solutions, Bartley was asked to draw up a rough site plan and council would see what could be done.

"I'm in favour of providing for our seniors," said Councillor John Macklem. "Speaking for myself, I would be willing to do everything in my power to aid and abet (any such project)."

WESTERN THEME

Organizers of last July's Fun, Food and Fish Festival in Norland and surrounding area are in the process of planning for the 1993 festival weekend.

Rena Parno updated council on what was in the works for the July '93 event.

Parno told council that the event would be held a week earlier than the 1992 festival.

Last year, there were several other events in the county that were held on the same weekend. It was felt that those other events may have drawn people who otherwise may have come to the local festival.

The '93 festival will have a Western Weekend theme. Details have yet to be worked out but among the main attractions that are being considered are Country and Western bands to perform at various times throughout the weekend.

A parade of classic cars is a possibility and the ever-controversial bikini contest may be repeated again this year. The bikini contest proved to be one of the most popular events of the 1992 festival.

Parno also asked council for any suggestions for fund-raising events. She hoped to have about $3,000 in the committee bank account to cover anticipated expenses.

About one third of the target has been reached.

The Western Weekend Festival will be held on July 16, 17 and 18, which is the weekend after the annual horse pull competition at Ward Memorial Park.

Drainville continues attack on gambling

Local MPP presents his third report lambasting gambling as morally wrong

Dennis Drainville launched his latest attack on his government's casino gambling initiative last week by presenting a report called "Casino Gambling: a Regressive Tax on the Poor."

"There is no doubt that casino gambling in Ontario will represent a regressive tax which places a disproportionate burden on the poor," the MPP writes.

"The government's expansion and encouragement of gambling preys on people's dreams of a better life in order to fill its coffers. If the legislation to allow casino gambling is passed, it will be a clear violation of the principles of social justice, reflected in an equitable taxation system, for which the New Democratic Party has fought since its inception."

This paper is the third in the Victoria-Haliburton MPP's series on casino gambling.

The others are "A new Democrat's Case Against Casino Gambling" and

"Casinos - No Answer to Our Fiscal Fortunes: Another Perspective on Casino Gambling."

In his previous papers, Drainville discusses the negative social impact of casinos due to an increase in gambling addiction, increased demand for social services and a need for more policing due to increased crime. He argues that casinos will do little to boost the economies of Ontario communities.

"Gambling is a system based on greed," Drainville argues. He says this devalues the human spirit and degrades communities."

Dollars and sense

If our education trustees refuse to make deep cuts into this year's budget they should be tarred and feathered.

So what if it means laying off a bunch of teachers? So what if it means kids have to walk a mile on the shoulder of busy highways? So what if the cuts mean overcrowded classrooms and second-rate education? The almighty dollar is king. That's what counts the most in this world and the sooner our kids learn this lesson the better off they will be.

If you agree with all of the above, rest assured the Haliburton County Taxpayers' Coalition is fighting your battle.

We, however, find this approach to education spending far too extreme for our tastes.

The coalition was founded with the noble cause of watching over our locally elected boards and councils with an eye on spending. While we applaud this cause, it appears some members are taking their vigilance a bit too far.

The coalition's credibility took a nosedive last Tuesday when about 30 members turned out to accuse, threaten and heckle the school board for its reluctance to follow the coalition's directions.

The coalition wants a zero increase in this year's education taxes and is telling the board to make the necessary cuts — regardless of the ramifications. The board, on the other hand, contends that it has made every reasonable cut, and taxes are still going up by more than five per cent.

Although the coalition bills itself as a representative of the taxpayers, we doubt there is strong support for their proposed cuts to the education budget.

Parents (who, incidentally, are taxpayers) would be outraged at the concept of sending their children on a mile-long hike down a busy highway to catch a bus. They'd be angry if their children's special needs are being overlooked by a teacher who is struggling to teach the basics in an overcrowded classroom.

Parents would be packing their bags and moving out of the county if they discovered the education system to be substandard.

And then what would our tax bills look like?

Politicians have a hard time battling media and organizations

Editor:

Imagine yourself for a moment, being an MPP candidate in an area such as ours. If you ran on the premise of some change and growth, which people like to hear, you would find yourself bogged down in questions that, quite frankly, couldn't be answered until you were in office. You may have some good ideas but when trying to put them into place you would find a lot of obstacles.

We all know government spending has to be cut in almost all areas if we are going to reduce deficits, but when the cuts are announced, the politicians then say they will only affect certain areas, example unemployment or grants, but every dollar is spent in another business therefore every dollar helps two or three people.

The political climate in Canada today has no room for the changes necessary for a full and future oriented economic recovery.

In the media, every time there is spending cut announced in any area, the people or organizations affected by the cuts would put forth their appeal or demonstration for the reinstatement of the funds. I agree that almost all businesses, organizations, even townships and counties are counting pennies to stay afloat.

That shows changes must be made.

A politician doesn't have a very big chance of making substantial changes in just one term.

I mention one term for the reason that if a politician had the foresight that certain deep and necessary changes would help and put them into place, the unpopularity of the decisions would see him/her out the door as soon as possible. Unless the changed paid off immediately and enough to keep the electorate content. In Layman's terms.

Teacher's anti-violence campaign called a success

Editor:

On behalf of the Haliburton Women Teachers' Association anti-violence campaign, I'd like to extend our appreciation for the Times' coverage of our campaign. It was obvious the good attendance we experienced during both evenings was very much due to the excellent coverage we received by our county's newspapers.

We are very excited with the number of people who have signed on to become involved at the next level — deciding community goals and action. We tentatively have the next meeting scheduled for Tuesday May 18 at Archie Stouffer Elementary School.

More praise for volunteers

Editor:

Imagine a bouquet of 13 million roses, one for each Canadian who volunteers time to help fellow citizens or to advance a worthy cause.

These roses symbolize the gratitude that Canada's volunteers so richly deserve.

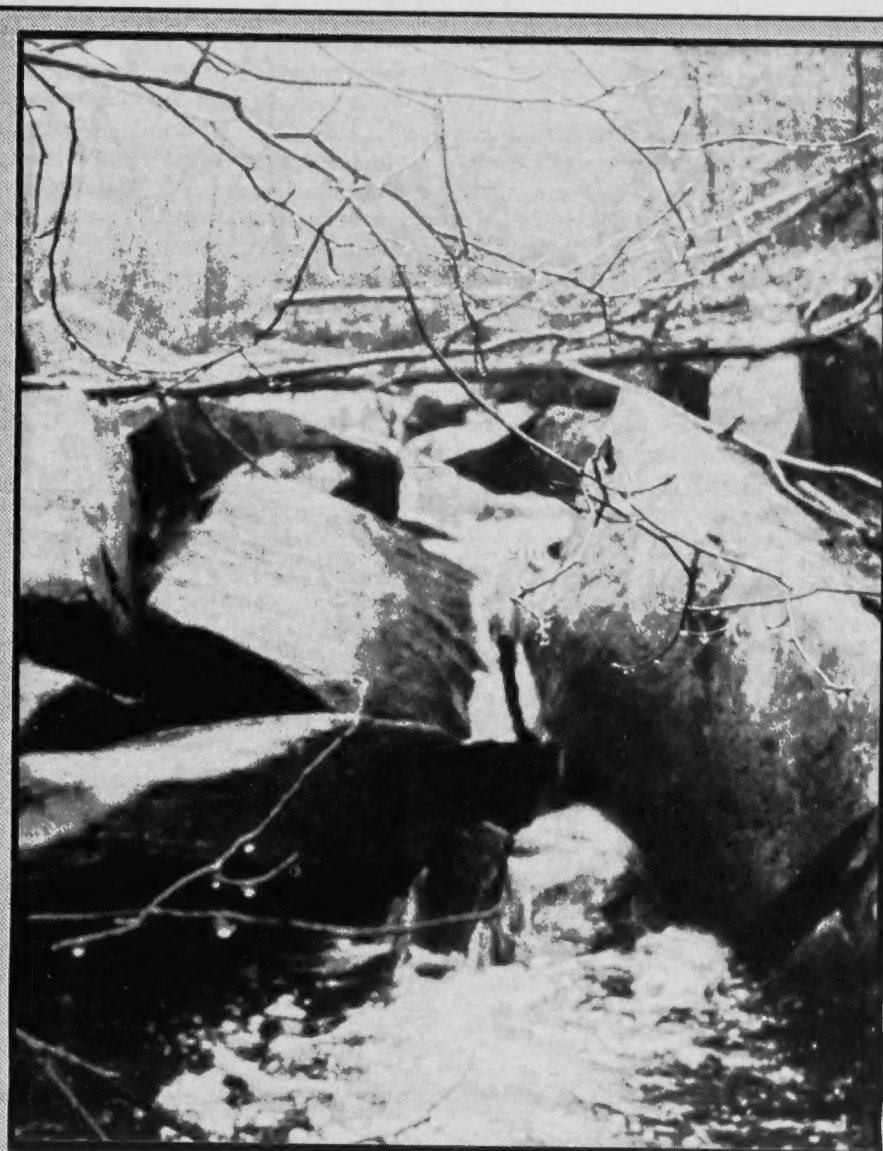

April 18 to 24 is National Volunteer Week. During this week, communities across Canada will be honouring their volunteers. This is also an ideal time for all Canadians to recognize the vital role of volunteers in society and to celebrate the spirit of volunteerism that has always been at the heart of what it means to be Canadian.

If you are a volunteer, this rose is for you, with all our thanks.

PC police have gone one step too far

You know the PC Thing? Political Correctness? Wherein a bunch of self-appointed Good Taste Arbiters tell us what's acceptable and what's not vis a vis culture, fashion and language?

I get nervous when I see what the thin-lipped PC police can do to culture and fashion. How can they geld a Stratford production of The Merchant of Venice or torpedo a North York revival of Showboat? I don't much care for what the PC movement is doing to language either. Redefining short people as 'vertically challenged', insisting that a quadriplegic isn't crippled - merely 'differently abled'. Denouncing school dictionaries as racist because one of the many definitions of the colour "black" is "evil".

Well, that's OK. Eons after our humourless and soulless semantic monitors have turned to dust, Dame English, feisty old broad that she is, will right herself like a gyroscope and sail on.

When it comes to the New Intolerance, it's not language I'm worried about. It's behaviour. Take for example, the hug. Among the simplest of words ... hug. From the Old Norse, 'hugga' meaning comfort, soothe. It's a simple, basic word for a simple, basic human activity: Hugging.

Except it's not so simple any more. Ask a teacher. Any teacher. When I was a kid in grade five I had a teacher by the name of Miss Sanford. She hugged. If you got something right on the blackboard or brought her a praying mantis or finally mastered the nine times table or if she just

by Arthur Black

felt like it, Miss Sanford was apt to fling her chalk skyward and throw her arms outward and plant a great big hug on you. Girl, boy, janitor, principal (well, not the principal - but just about anyone else) especially her kids. I got some of the best hugs of my life from Miss Sanford.

She's retired now - and a good thing too. If Miss Sanford went around hugging her students nowadays she'd probably wind up serving three to five.

I'm joking, but just barely. I know a master printmaker and art instructor who answered a knock at his door last year to find a couple of policemen there.

"Yes?" he asked.

"You're under arrest," they said.

And they cuffed him and popped him in the back of a cruiser and took him downtown, without a word of explanation to his family. Bosnia? No. Nicaragua? Beirut? Nope.

Small town Ontario.

His crime? Well, he had been playing a game of pick-up basketball with his adolescent son and a bunch of kids in the school yard. That evening, one of the kids had complained to his parents that the teacher had 'touched' him during the game. That's all it took to go from respected pillar of the community to accused pervert in the lockup.

That teacher spent two nights in jail, then one year of hell, waiting for his case to come to trial. During that time, eggs were thrown at his house, his kids were harassed at school, there were obscene phone calls.

When his case came to trial, the courtroom was packed. The man's minister was there. So was his doctor and a platoon of loyal friends who knew he was innocent. Just about everybody this side of Mother Teresa testified to the sterling character of the man. The judge was furious. With a laser glare at the police and a sulphurous lecture about wasting court time on a case that was without a shred of evidence, he threw it out of court.

Which brings me back to hugging. If a person can get arrested and humiliated for an alleged accidental elbow in a game of pick-up hoop ball, what would be the sentence be for a Miss Sanford who hugged us all - with or without a basketball?

More to the point, where does the New Intolerance leave teachers nowadays? Is it worth their career to ruffle a kid's cowlick when he's just scored a touchdown? Would they dare to comfort a student who crumples, weeping, under the stress of impending exams?

If your kid falls in the school yard and comes up squalling with a bloody knee, is the teacher going to be there to administer the obligatory therapeutic hug?

Not bloody likely.

Home Show: Two-day event showcases the best in the building trades

The foundation is set for the first Haliburton County Home and Cottage Show.

This Saturday, dozens of the area's building-related businesses will fill the Minden Community Centre and Curling Club with displays, brochures and samples of their work to show off their talents.

This ambitious trade show is the brainchild of the Haliburton County Homebuilders Association. The association came up with this concept as a means of pulling all the building trades together under one roof to show off the wide variety of services available.

Many of the local builders have attended shows in the past, where they have competed for attention with displays on anything from jewelry to t-shirts, says publicity chairman Brian Holden. This show will focus solely on the building trades, and allow them to show off what they do.

Just what will people find when the walk through the doors this Saturday? Holden says the response from exhibitors has been excellent, with participation from product suppliers, contractors, subtrades, designers, well drillers, landscape designers, and septic system installers, to name a few.

For anyone who may be in the market for a new home or cottage, this show is a must. Holden says it will give people the opportunity to meet some of the people involved in the industry and to gain assurance they are employing qualified builders. It's also an opportunity to shop around and find new ideas that could be worked into your plans.

Keeping up to date

The Haliburton County Homebuilders Association was established two years ago in an effort to keep local builders up to date on the latest rules and regulations. It also provides for the sharing of ideas and concerns and for educational opportunities.

Holden says environmental concerns have become an important consideration to the building industry over the past several years. This has meant that changes to various building regulations are continually coming down the pike. The association helps its members to keep up to date on those changes.

The doors open this Saturday at 10 a.m. and at noon on Sunday. The show runs until 6 p.m. on both days.

Coby Islanders tournament the biggest yet

Coby tournament action was intense between Newmarket's All Pro Sports and Bobcaygeon's British Empire Fuels last Sunday at the Minden Arena. (Above) Fuels jump out 2-1 on this play while a face-off goes to the All Pros (right).

The annual Coby Islanders tournament is now 17-years-old and it keeps on growing.

Last weekend, 50 teams, the most ever, came to the Highlands to compete in the tournament which was jointly hosted by Minden and Haliburton.

The event is proving to be so successful organizers may add a third arena for next year with Wilberforce being a good bet.

The hockey itself was hotly contested. With the teams competing for $4,600 in prize money tempers did flare on occasion like at a game between Newmarket's All Pro Sports and the Bobcaygeon Black Hawks where a player was ejected for being a bit over-aggressive.

However, the most exciting game was the final which was played between the Minden Rangers and the Kawartha Kanadiens.

The Kanadiens pulled off a 4-2 win, but not without a battle. With only a few minutes left the Rangers were only down by one and pressing hard for the equalizer. However, the Kanadiens' goalie was superb and the Rangers could not score. The Kanadiens added an empty net goal to seal the game, the A Division championship and the $1,500 first prize.

The winners of the championship games are as follows:

A Division: Kawartha Kanadiens (Lindsay) 4 Minden Rangers 2

B Division: Zack's Sharks (Toronto) 4 Floodies (Haliburton) 2

C Division: All Pro Sports (Newmarket) won by default

D Division: Stoner (Toronto) 10 LOF Rink Rats (Lindsay) 0

E Division: Midtown (Lindsay) 4 Rotarco (Magnetawan) 0

F Division: Highland Glass (Haliburton) 3 Northern Luights (Norland) 2

Spring sports starting up once again

Spring has sprung and along with the pussy willows and cattails popping up all over, there is a new crop of HHSS athletic teams.

Junior and senior girls soccer is under way and the girls have been running and doing aerobics to get in shape since the beginning of April.

Their first tournament is scheduled for April 30, although both teams have not yet been able to practice on the field.

The badminton teams have been practicing since March Break and recently the senior and junior teams captured both the Kawartha West and Kawartha qualifying trophies. The seniors will be travelling to Coburg on Tuesday and the junior team will be going to St. Peters on Thursday.

Of course the ever-

High Times

by Jenna Stutt

popular track and field team began practice last week to prepare for the school's track and field meet which will take place on April 29.

This meet will involve almost the entire student body taking part in and officiating many different events.

The archery team doesn't take part in a tournament until May, however these Robin Hoods-in-training have been practicing since last week as well.

There are a lot of things happening here at HHSS as far as athletics are concerned and everyone is looking forward to exciting seasons.

The only problem that the different teams seem to have is, when will all of the members have time for classes?

Good luck to all athletes and coaches involved in the spring time sports.

New format for Metro Bowl

Under the new playoff set-up for high school football the senior Haliburton Highlands Redmen would have been competing in the Metro Bowl last year when they cruised to the Kawartha title.

Under the new format, the winner of the Kawartha division will play the best from the city of Peterborough on November 6.

Last year the seniors lost to the Crestwood Mustangs in the Kawartha final 36-0, however Crestwood is from Peterborough and would not be competing for the Kawartha title.

Four days later, the winner of the preliminary round game between Peterborough and Kawartha league winners would then move on to play the best from Scarborough who get a bye in the preliminary round.

The winner of that game moves into the semifinals on November 14 with a chance to play in the finals at the SkyDome on November 20.

The expanded playoffs will allow champions from 15 leagues to compete for the 12th annual Metro Bowl, the top high school football game in Ontario.

High school elections near

by Oliver Greer

Election time is approaching at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. With campaigns set to start this week this year's Student Activity Council (SAC) is getting ready to hand over the reins of power to those elected.

This year's SAC president, Todd Jackson, says the duties of the SAC are to run or oversee almost anything that is extracurricular at the school including dances, barbecues, music and spirit week. It acts as the students' voice to the administration at the school. It also oversees the prom, although a separate committee runs it.

Any concerns or grievances about the areas they are involved in, for example dances or music, are usually expressed by the students through the SAC.

Jackson says he ran for the position of SAC president because there seemed to be a lack of interest but the job had to be done. "A bunch of us got together and decided to make the effort", says

Curling question finally resolved

The debate which has raged all season was finally resolved April 4 when the Jim Garbutt foursome, representing Thursday evening mixed curlers, vanquished the Chris MacDonald rink representing the Friday night mixed league. The show-down on ice was the final chapter in a winter of curling and put to rest the seemingly endless wrangling over which league was the rightful holder of the championship crown. In a close game, the teams retired from the rink when the Garbutt four established a 14-0 lead by the sixth end.

Rabies virus a biting threat in the Highlands

District health unit investigated 82 cases of possible human rabies last year alone

by Andy Holloway

A large majority of rabies cases occur in southern Ontario which makes educating area children about the virus very important, says a district health inspector.

"They're the ones who are out there in the woods and who could come in contact with animals," said Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit inspector Tom Reddering before conducting a seminar for a grade five class at Archie Stouffer Elementary School.

"We want to get them educated before they meet up with a wild animal so they'll know what to do."

Reddering and inspector Frances Tsotsos were at Archie Stouffer last Tuesday warning students about the dangers of rabies. The program is part of the district unit's mandate for public education from the ministry of health.

They have also visited schools in Haliburton, Dorset and Wilberforce as they do their annual tour of the county's school system.

The threat of rabies in this area is real said Reddering. Last year the health unit investigated 82 cases of possible human contact with rabies of which eight proved positive. Four people received the rabies vaccine. On the positive side, no one has contacted the disease over the last 22 years in Ontario largely due to the vaccination of some 40,000 since 1967.

After quizzing the students about their knowledge of the fatal virus, Reddering and Tsotsos gave the students more knowledge about rabies. Many of the students had received similar talks in the past, but as they grow older they can digest more information. The younger children may get colouring books to illustrate the process and effects of rabies while the older students get more hard facts and data.

But the key element about rabies remains the same: stay away from unknown or wild animals and if you do get bit tell your parents or a doctor as soon as possible, Reddering told students.

Despite the fact that about 60 per cent of all human rabies treatments are due to exposure to household pets that are not immunized against rabies, only 40 per cent of dogs and just 15 per cent of cats have had rabies shots.

"If you have a dog or a cat then I want you to go home tonight and ask your parents if your pet has had rabies shots," said Reddering.

While the health unit does not provide rabies shots, you can vaccinate your pet at local animal clinics, some of whom will offer discount rates for the shots, said Reddering. Once a year every fall, a low-cost clinic is set up, but by then it may be too late.

Recycled doll to reside in permanent collection

Local artist's work to be displayed in Nova Scotian Orangemen's hall

by Andy Holloway

A worn-out doll, a light plate, scraps of material and a metal piece from a toilet are not the normal materials of art.

However, the long since deceased founder of the Ladies Orangemen Benevolent Association Mary Cullum lives on in Halls Lake resident Marvella Smith's recycled doll.

Smith was commissioned by her aunt to create a doll, quilt and a wall hanging for the association's 100th anniversary. The items will make their way to Westville, Nova Scotia - Smith's hometown - where they will belong to a permanent collection honouring the LOBA and its founder Mary Cullum. The doll is meant to represent Cullum in 1894 and is also wearing that period's costume.

What is unique about the items is that they are made entirely from recycled material.

Starting with an old, played-out barbie-like doll, Smith created a model tribute to Cullum right down to the buttons on the doll's coat which were donated by Eleanor Hamilton. The buttons were actually used on a dress that Hamilton's mother used when she was a little girl way back in 1894.

Using leftover scraps of material Smith made the costume that the doll wears. The base which the doll stands on is made a piece of galvanized steel and an old light plate while another piece of metal goes up to the doll's waist giving her a stiff posture.

The wall hanging and quilt were also made from bits of fabric Smith had lying around as well.

The use of recycled items was not entirely a moral issue says Smith citing costs and availability of the items as being key elements in her decision. And there's also the issue of continuity. Having started out with an old doll it just made sense to continue in that vein.

"It's like a mushroom effect. Once you start out one way then everything else has to be that way."

The association gave Smith the commission and their themes - open bible, faith, hope and charity, but she was left on her own to come up with the design.

Not that she didn't get any help. Aside from the aforementioned donation from Hamilton, Smith also received help from her neighbors, the Martin Brothers, who built the base and stand for the doll and from Minden's library staff who helped her find pictures and designs from the late 19th century.

The end result is beautiful, and practical.

"She is more to do with recycling than anything. The books showed what she should be wearing and the ladies here at the library helped a lot," says Smith.

Marvella Smith's recycled doll honours LOBA founder Mary Cullum.

Jennifer Wales wins third level of Legion public speaking contest

by Andy Holloway

Jennifer Wales has won again.

The grade six student at Archie Stouffer Elementary School won for the third time this year in the Legion's public speaking contest earlier this month in Hastings.

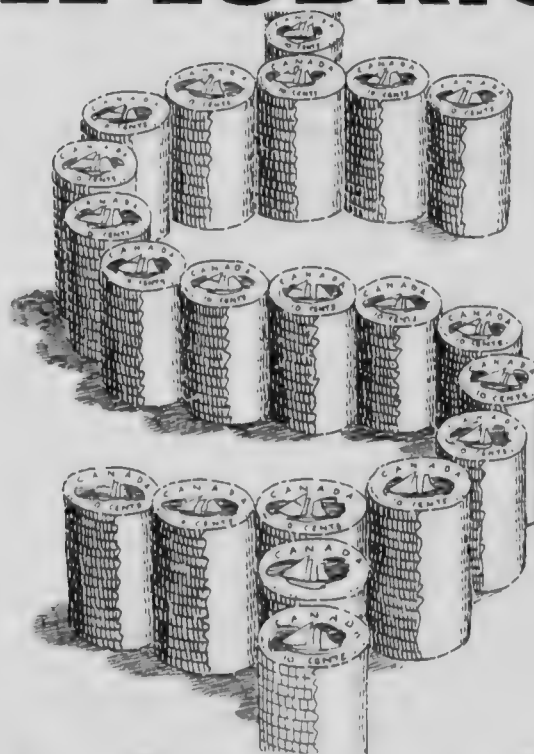

The win allowed Wales to move to the next level of competition which was held in Gananoque last weekend - the highest level a Minden student has ever achieved. If she wins there then she will move onto the Ontario finals in Toronto later this spring.

Wales' speech titled 'Being a Tweenager' explores the angst of not yet being a teenager ready for more responsibilities, but not being a child either. At Hastings she competed against five others and came up a winner.

Wales says she's proud of what she has been able to do so far and that the trip to Hastings "was fun, but it was a long drive."

Earlier this year Wales had won at the Archie Stouffer competition sponsored by Branch 636 and at the next step up in Bobcaygeon.

Something for everybody

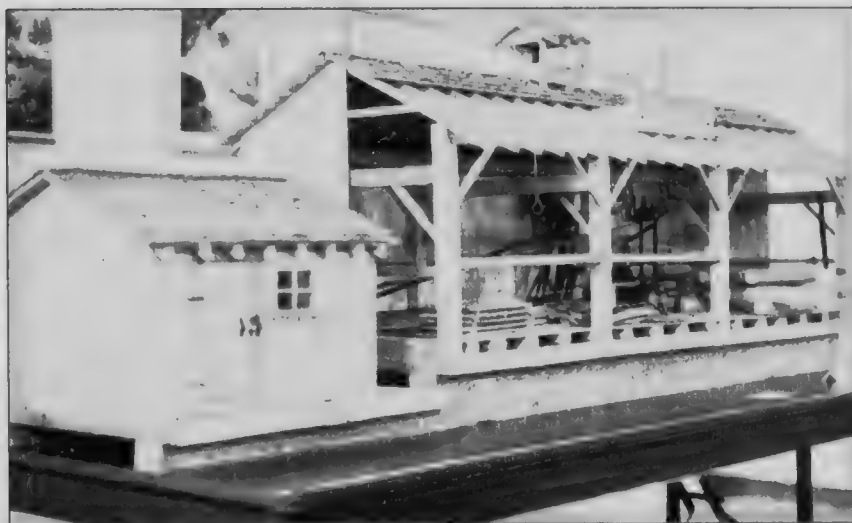

Member's show shows a world of talent lives in this county

by Andy Holloway

Just about everything can be found at the annual Spring Member's Show at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery.

Oils, carvings, clothing, sculptures and more can be found in the gallery's two rooms. The show gives the gallery's members a chance to show their work to the public and compete against each other in three different categories - painting, Fabric/yarn work and multi-media. The winners will be chosen by public voting and the three winners receive a free membership.

Picking winners will be quite hard as the work on display is beautiful and of exceptional quality.

Haliburton County- The Beginning is Merv Bunker's beautiful, fully operational miniature of a sawmill circa the late 19th century.

Dominating the main room is a fully operational miniature of a sawmill. Made mainly from wood the piece is very life-like. Artist Merv Bunker's piece entitled Haliburton County - The Beginning is based on Bunker's Sawmill circa the late 19th century. The detail in the work is extraordinary, right down to the individual wooden tiles on the roof.

Once you get over the sawmill, there is plenty of fine work hung on the walls and placed in glass containers. One of the more arresting paintings is The Farmer in the Glen by Peter Pennington. Really three works in one, it's a different work when viewed from different angles. Another Pennington piece Journey's End transcends the typical paleness of water colours to create a rich sunset scene with the silhouettes of two people canoeing in the foreground.

The Times staffer Gil Parcell also has two pieces on display including a new one called Anticipation. In his traditional acrylic paint, Parcell has created a funny vignette which shows a hobo and his dog frying sausages.

Not to be outdone, Ron Robinson Sr. has two wooden carvings, Cat and Cougar which are beautiful and intricately designed. Neither piece is for sale in keeping with Robinson's other work.

However, plenty of pieces are for sale.

Nora Nobles working with oil shows off the beautiful land of the Highlands in Head Lake, Haliburton as well as an energetic small waterfall in Rocky Pool.

Beside the paintings are weavings, knittings, stained glass, crochet and basket work, ceramics and soapstone. Audrey Fountain's troll dolls are dressed to the nines in Bride and Groom, a piece sure to impress the kids.

The show runs at the gallery until the end of the month.

Refreshing: Nora Nobles' painting Rocky Pool.

Lindsay councillor runs for Liberal nomination

Lindsay Town Councillor John O'Reilly has announced that he will seek the nomination for Liberal Candidate in the federal election expected this fall.

"It is my belief that the position of Member of Parliament is one of the highest callings for anyone," says O'Reilly. "I am honoured to be asked to let my name stand and look forward to the challenge of running in Victoria-Haliburton riding."

He says he is seeking the nomination because he believes a strong person, willing to speak up and work for the riding must be sent to Ottawa. "We need every advantage to stop the erosion of jobs, tourism and our environment. A member to represent Victoria-Haliburton will have a very large and difficult task to bring advantages back to this area. We must elect the best representative for our riding."

O'Reilly has worked in politics with other candidates. he was Chief Financial Officer for John Eakins and Campaign Chair for Bruce Glass in the last election. O'Reilly is presently head of the Finance and Personnel committee for the Town of Lindsay and was chair of the Lindsay/Ops Fire Committee. He is employed as an associate broker with Royal LePage Real Estate Services after running his own real estate company for 20 years.

O'Reilly has a history of community involvement including: Charter

Three in race for Scott's seat

Life-long Brock Township resident John Williamson is the third candidate to enter the race for the Progressive Conservative nomination for the federal Victoria-Haliburton riding.

Williamson started his professional career in the banking industry as a specialist in international banking. He soon became a foreign exchange trader in Toronto.

After banking, he began a long career in the steel industry at a steel mill in Whitby. Williamson has worked as a union employee in the casting department and later worked in administration in the accounting and purchasing departments, the latter of which became his career.

A release from Williamson states that "hand-on experience in business is John's best credential to become a Member of Parliament."

A father of two, Williamson still lives on his family farm with his wife Ruth. He is a member of a public speaking club, a church elder and boasts a longtime in-

Outgoing SAC president has his say

Jackson.

Some of the goals he and the rest of the SAC set for themselves when beginning their term were to improve dances at the high school and increase attendance, boost school spirit and also to try to give something back to the school.

The decision was made to accomplish this goal by using the money raised at fund raisers and dances to do something to improve the school.

Although nothing is definite, some ideas have been put forth as to how do this, including putting in another door leading to the courtyard to make it more accessible to students and allow them to get more use out of it. SAC is also considering purchasing a large sign for the front of the school to display up coming events says Jackson. Jackson says most of these goals have been met. Attendance has been up at dances, possibly because of an increase in the number of grade nine students "but we like to think it had something to do with us."

This year's SAC tried to give the younger students at the school a voice. This hasn't always been the case due to the fact that most SAC members are senior students so they interact more with senior students. As for the SAC goal of putting in the new door or the sign, Jackson says it's still not definite what option will be selected because it's hard to judge what the financial situation will be at the end of the year.

Jackson says now that the term is coming to a close the SAC still has to help organize the prom, help generate interest and a good turnout for the upcoming elections and also get next years SAC set up and show them the ropes. The duration of their term left after the new SAC is elected will be almost a joint effort between the two groups because the new SAC will have a lot of input.

Jackson says if he could give next year's SAC some advice it would be, "Don't let it stress you out, take it as what it is, a chance to have a fun time and to help others to have a fun time. Do the job well but remember you're also there to have a good time.

Bunny brings joy and candy

Saturday afternoon, April 3, Gordon Houghton and Dave Bennett were here to sing and play their guitars, to help residents start off the weekend. We appreciate Gordon and Dave for coming and thank them very much.

Sunday afternoon Anita Smith came to read a couple more chapters of "Crossings". We sincerely thank her and look forward to her coming again.

Sunday evening chapel service was taken by Rev. John Burgess with June Mason as organist. We appreciate and thank you John and June.

Monday we had crafts and "Men Only".

The Tuesday chapel service was conducted by Rev. Brian Parker, for which we thank him from our hearts.

In the afternoon Stella Burch read to us from a very enjoyable book. Thank you sincerely, Stella. Also in the afternoon at crafts we made rabbits for table decorations at Easter. That evening Corinne Arsenault helped us so we could play a couple of tables of euchre.

Wednesday at 11 a.m. Dottie Muirhead read the local papers for those who need help. In the afternoon we had a bus trip to Carnarvon Zion United Church for a lovely tea. It was called "Spring Time in Paris." The ladies of Zion United Church had prepared a program before tea was served. It started with a game of questions to guess what was pinned on our back about the subject of spring, followed by

by Winnifred Barnum

a few songs about spring played by Eleanor Hamilton. Evelyn Coleman gave a reading and a sketch of her mother and father's lives. Velve Harrison, Yvonne Penney and Alice Chambers were presented with long and helpful service pins. Before tea there was more singing and a game of unscrambling names of spring flowers. Tea was delectable crepes and tea or coffee. It was a happy time and we thank the ladies for inviting us.

Thursday was our tea party in the auditorium. The ladies from Haliburton Anglican Church (Ann Schell, Florence Webb, Gwen Hughes, Betty Wise and Marvis Burk, with Greta Curry attending as a guest) brought a delicious tea that we all enjoyed and we sincerely thank them.

Bingo was played in the dining room. The callers were Brandon Jarvis and Valerie Patterson. Kathy Woods helped the residents. Our hearty thanks Brandon, Valerie and Kathy.

On Good Friday the Easter Bunny and friend greeted each of us with a bag of candies and Dottie Muirhead left a rice krispie bunny at each of our places at our tables.

Triple comedy to tickle funny bone

The Highlands Little Theatre members are preparing to entertain and tickle your funny bone at their upcoming spring production.

The three comedy play — Happy Trails, by Marilyn Humus; Cast Off Five, by Audrey McBain, and The Three Million Dollar Lunch, by Fred Carmichael are to be presented on May 13, 14 and 15 at the high school.

Happy Trails and The Three Million Dollar Lunch may seem familiar titles. These two plays won numerous awards at the fall EODL Festival staged in Haliburton last year. The plays were such a delight, the Little Theatre wants to give everyone a chance to see them.

The two senior women in Happy Trails take us for a hilarious drive through their village streets to a new milestone in their lives.

The fantastic Three Million Dollar Lunch has a biting edge to the outcome of the present carefree use of what Mother Nature provides.

The Highlands Little Theatre actors recreating the characters in "Lunch" include Brenda Ellis, who won the best actor award for her role in this play.

The third uproarious play is Cast Off Five. If you were shipwrecked on a desert island, how do you think you would spend your time? Playing cards?

Some think this would be ideal. Hmm . . . maybe. The women in this shipwreck do just that, but you'll have to come and see for yourself how this card marathon helps to pass the time.

Tickets for this triple comedy are available at the door, or can be purchased in advance at Paulette's in Haliburton or at the Storeroom in Minden. Once again, reserved seating can be purchased by calling 754-3512.

ANNUAL REPORT

of THE MINDEN HOSPITAL BUILDING FUND

The Minden Hospital Building Fund was established by the Rotary Club of Minden in 1988 to provide a mechanism for those wishing to set aside funds for the replacement of the present Minden Hospital. All monies contributed to the fund are placed in a special account. The rules governing this account allow for the money to be withdrawn only to assist in the replacement of the present hospital.

The Rotary Club of Minden has agreed to underwrite the cost of operating this special fund and ensure ongoing management of the dollars entrusted to the fund. Seven trustees, four Rotarians and three members of the community have been appointed to oversee the management of this money.

Over the past year, a number of donations have been made to this fund, including many in memory of individuals who have died, and citizens at large. Since, at the moment there is no immediate plan for the replacement of the Minden Hospital, there is no active campaign to solicit funds. However, anyone wishing to make a donation to be used in the future for the construction of a new Minden Hospital, may do so to this fund and be assured the money will be held in trust until such time.

In establishing this fund, it was decided that an annual report should be made to the community on its status. The following report has been approved by the committee overseeing the fund. Rotarians - Pat Murphy, President, Tara Lowe, Treasurer, and Paul Heffer and community representatives, Jack Brezina, Dr. Steve Dawson, Gord Monk and Andy Poldas.

Questions regarding this fund should be directed to the address listed below. (Space for this announcement was donated by The Times). This report covers the period from January 1, 1992 to December 31, 1992.

AMOUNT HELD IN TRUST

As of January 1st, 1992, The Minden Hospital Building Fund included $20,737.06. $1,786.70 was earned as interest as of December 31, 1992. Total contributions as of December 31, 1992: $1,970.00. Balance on deposit as of December 31, 1992: $24,493.76. For more information about this report and the Minden Hospital Building Fund, write: Box 504, Minden, Ontario, K0M 2K0.

Renovating home can be dangerous to your health

Renovating your home can be a very rewarding experience, however there can be a hidden health hazard since many older homes (pre-1950) contain lead-based paints.

Removing lead-based paints as part of a renovation can expose you and your family to a health risk. Babies, young children and pregnant women are especially vulnerable to the harmful effects of lead.

You can reduce the risk by following these steps:

* Wear protective coveralls, goggles and gloves. A respirator would be ideal

* Use chemical strippers, not sanders or heat, to remove the paint.

* Remove furnishings and seal off the work area from the rest of the house.

* Remove work clothing and shoes every time you leave the work area.

* Clean the work area thoroughly at the end of each day.

* Ensure that everyone, especially children, washes his or her hands often and always before meals.

* Never drink or smoke in the work area.

Copies of the booklet "Renovation - Lead in Your Home" are available free of charge from your nearest Information Centre.

Consumption not population our problem

After a recent lecture, two people objected vehemently to my suggestion that we in industrialized countries are the major cause of global ecological degradation and pollution. They blamed over-population in the Third World.

I countered by pointing out that the great disparity in wealth and consumption between rich and poor countries has to be addressed. Excess population does lead to ecological destruction and it's made worse in the Third World by their access to so little of the planet's resources.

But each Canadian consumes 16 to 20 times as much as a person in India or China and 60 to 70 times more than someone in Bangladesh. Thus, we 1.1 billion people in industrialized nations have the same ecological impact as 17 billion to 77 billion Third World people!

The planet certainly could not take 5.5 billion people living as we do, but if WE don't cut back consumption and pollution, poorer nations can rightfully aim to emulate us. My disputants weren't convinced and retorted: "You're crazy if you expect people in Canada or the U.S. to cut back on consumption. It's natural to want more."

Over two thousand years ago, Aristotle had come to the same conclusion: "The avarice of mankind is insatiable." Last century, Leo Tolstoy had backed him up: "Seek among men, from beggar to millionaire, one who is contented with his lot and you will not find one such in a thousand."

Alan Durning of the Worldwatch Institute raises the important and timely issue in How Much Is Enough? (WW Norton & Co, NY) which opens: "Consumption: the neglected god in the trinity of issues the world must address if we are to get on a path of development that does not lead to ruin. The other two, population and technological change, receive attention, but with consumption, there is often only silence."

So is it human nature to want more? Durning

Reflections

by David Suzuki

suggests that today's appetite for more consumer goods was a deliberate goal of American business and government! Retailing analyst Victor Lebow stated shortly after World War II: "Our enormously productive economy...demands that we make consumption our way of life, that we convert the buying and use of goods into rituals, that we seek our spiritual satisfaction, our ego satisfaction, in consumption...We need things consumed, burned up, worn out, replaced, and discarded at an ever increasing rate."

The chairman of the US Council of Economic Advisers in 1953 pronounced the ultimate goal of the American economy was "to produce more consumer goods." And they were immensely successful. The contents of the average North American home today would be the envy of kings and emperors of the past. We now classify cars, television, telephones, refrigerators, microwave ovens and stereos as necessities.

We even think of ourselves as "consumers" and "shopping" is a recreation. Consumption has become so crucial for the economy that in periods of recession, the consumer is often blamed for not spending enough while business and governments seek ways to increase consumer confidence to stimulate spending.

Media propaganda pounds home the message that consumption brings happiness. But possessions can't fill the emotional and spiritual needs for human relationships, community and some purpose beyond accumulation of wealth and goods.

Durning quotes a psychologist who finds "there is very little difference in the levels of reported happiness found in rich and very poor countries." In spite of the steep rise in consumption, the fraction of people who feel happy with life has not changed over the past

40 years. And continues escalation in consumption is not sustainable: "In constant dollars, the world's people have consumed as many goods and services since 1950 as all previous generations put together. Since 1940, Americans alone have used up as large a share of the earth's mineral resources as did everyone before them combined."

It is a fact that everything on Earth is limited so endless increase in consumption cannot continue and will fall. But that does not mean the future must be a bleak life of denial and sacrifice. Much of our consumption is based on inefficiency and waste. We can reduce our ecological impact several fold simply by improving our efficiency.

Over-consumption is not a goal that society must maintain at all costs, it has become a symptom that something is wrong because no matter how much we possess, we are not fulfilled or satisfied. Our lifestyle extracts a heavy price: violence, alcoholism, burglary, vandalism, drug abuse, alienation, loneliness, pollution and disruption of family and neighbourhood.

Making do with less and designing a future that is based in communities with greater self-reliance and self-sufficiency makes ecological and social sense. But we won't get started until we stop trying to shift the responsibility elsewhere.

IN MEMORIAM

FOMENKO: In loving memory of my dear father, Boris, who passed away April 20, 1992. When family ties are broken, And loved ones have to part, It leaves a wound that never heals
And also broken hearts.
My heart still aches with sadness
And silent tears still flow,
And what it meant to lose you.
Only I will every know.
Always remembered by your daughter Lily.

FOMENKO: In loving memory of a dear husband and father who was called away April 20, 1992.

We think of you in silence now
And often speak your name.
But all we have are memories
And pictures in a frame.
If tears could build a stairway
And memories a lane
We would all walk to heaven
And bring you home again.
Sadly missed by his wife Irene,
daughter Lily, sons Tony, Boris,
Nick, Ed, foster-son Randy and their families.

Feel the Magic

of a refreshing new sensation...

Nothing is as enjoyable or important as time spent with family and friends. And when it comes to quality time, there are few places as appropriate and attractive as a Beachcomber Spa.

Beachcomber Spas invite everyone to relax. Warm, swirling water and pulsating hydro-therapy jets refresh and invigorate the entire body. Get in, lie back and enjoy. Cares just float away.

Beachcomber. For the good times in life.

"We have had so much fun from having a Beachcomber Spa -- We use it several times a week. We have our tub outside and have used it even at 35 below zero. Our family and friends have used our tub and they all agree that owning a Beachcomber Spa is definitely the way to go!"
